Meaning of the Five Requests

Rescue from All Terrors and Calamities

The first request asks Allah to save the reciter from every fear, hardship and sudden affliction. The words ahwal and afat cover the worries of this world and the terrors of the Hereafter.

Fulfilment of All Needs

The second request places every need in the hands of Allah. These needs include health, income, family matters and religious goals.

Purification from All Sins

The third request asks Allah to cleanse the reciter from sins. It reminds the believer that repentance and salawat belong together.

Highest Ranks with Allah

The fourth request asks for elevated status in the sight of Allah. Such rank is granted through faith, sincerity and good deeds.

The Furthest Reach of Good

The last request asks that every good of this life and the next reach its highest limit. It closes the salawat with a wide and generous hope.

When to Read Darood E Tanjeena

Sharia sets no fixed time for salawat, so it may be recited at any hour. These moments are especially loved.

After Fajr and Maghrib

Many Muslims place it within their morning and evening adhkar. The calm of these hours helps the heart stay present.

In Times of Worry or Hardship

Reciting it in difficulty suits its meaning, since the salawat itself asks for rescue from calamity.

On Fridays

The Prophet ﷺ encouraged Muslims to send more salawat upon him on Friday, as reported in Abu Dawud. Friday is a fitting day to increase the recitation.

Before and After Dua

Scholars recommend opening and closing every dua with salawat. It is a good choice for this purpose, since its requests match what a believer asks in dua.

How to Recite Step by Step

Step One: Prepare with Wudu

Wudu is recommended, though not required. Recite in a clean place and a calm state.

Step Two: Begin with Sincere Intention

Intend to send blessings upon the Prophet ﷺ for the pleasure of Allah. Worldly needs may follow in dua, but the first aim is love and respect.

Step Three: Recite Slowly and Correctly

Pronounce each word with care, especially the letters that carry weight in Arabic. If the Arabic is difficult, begin with the transliteration and improve with a teacher.

Step Four: Send Salam and Make Dua

After reciting, say "Sallallahu alayhi wa sallam" and then make dua to Allah for what the heart needs.

Etiquettes of Reciting

1. Send salawat with respect and a humble voice.
2. Avoid reciting in places that are unclean or unsuitable.
3. Do not rush through the words, and avoid mixing them with worldly talk.
4. Pair it with repentance and obedience to Allah.
5. Teach children the salawat with love and correct pronunciation.
